PURE. FRESH. MINERAL RICH.

I have used Beloka Water at a variety of events, and received many compliments and expressions of interest as people have enjoyed it so much. As a locally sourced and produced water in recyclable bottles, it's exactly what I was looking for.
Plus the light mineral taste with perfect bubbles, it ticks all the boxes for taste and ethics. Proud to be using and proud to be drinking it.

Loved the product. we have been looking for an Australian alternative to European mineral waters for some time now.
For your information my choice is governed by;
1st – function (does it taste good)
2nd - ecological impact (shipping being the main factor with bottled products)
3rd – social/financial i.e. supporting small business

PURE EVOLUTION

PURE. FRESH. MINERAL RICH. PURE EVOLUTION. 500 MILLION YEARS IN THE MAKING

The difference between generic water and pure pristine mineral water is crystal clear. 'Pristine' in natural water terms means how well protected its source is from any harmful surroundings, as measured by its level of nitrates.
Beloka Water® meets the criteria for the highest world purity ranking. Its source is on the eastern border of the unspoilt Kosciuszko National Park landscape.

Uniquely Australian

Beloka Water® is a local, premium Australian alternative to imported mineral waters. The bottles are Australian-made, as are the labels, cartons and caps. Many Australian families benefit from the enjoyment of these products. A state-of-the-art bottling facility operates from the mineral water's natural source at Beloka. Like the world's premium bottled waters, and unlike most of the Australian bottled waters, which have multiple sources, are chemically treated and bulk transported to generic urban production facilities, Beloka Water® flows from a protected single subterranean aquifer.

Environmentally Sensitive

Beloka is proud to be an independent, specialist Australian mineral water company. Having been fortunate enough to discover a pristine, invaluable natural resource in the Australian Alps, Beloka's goal is to be a worthy steward of this part of Australia's heritage.
Since the foundation of the precious Well in 2007, meticulously clean bottling facilities have been installed to maintain the purity of its water. The company will continue to invest and seeks sustainable, responsible growth.

500 Million Years in the Making

Filtered through 500 million year-old geological strata, Beloka Water® is not to be compared with collected rain or bottled tap water. This is world-class, pure, pristine water from deep in the heart of Australia.

Health – from the Australian Alps

The only ingredients in Beloka Water® are those that the mountains put there.
Apart from a light carbonation of the Sparkling variety, the natural minerals that are present include magnesium, calcium, sodium and potassium. These are beneficial to the human muscular, skeletal and nervous systems.
You won't find these minerals in the same concentration in most rain-collected waters, or many of those bottled water brands that come from blended or tap water sources. Some blended waters may contain added fluorine or chlorine: but the pure Beloka Water® you drink is just as nature intended.

Pure Style

The contemporary bottle shape and the label designs speak of pure class, and will grace any table.
There is Naturally Still Water and Lightly Sparkling Water, in a selection of sizes, to meet all needs and all occasions.
More and more people and places are making Beloka their water of choice.
